

Ballyroan Parish Newsletter for Sunday 15th August 2010

Coffee Morning and Cake Sale:

We congratulate Conor Fox for all his good work and wish him well in today's Outdoor Collection and Coffee morning and Cake Sale in the Pastoral Centre. As Conor is heading back to Nepal in the next few days he is also having a Table Quiz on Wednesday 18th in St. Jude's GAA Club, Templeogue beginning at 8.30pm

Parish Web Site

Just noticed myself a great idea on our parish website called Events Diary, in it you have the mass intentions for the week - (handy to check on them to avoid mistakes) and things that are happening locally. Good work and well done to the Ballyroanparish.ie web team.

Parish Harvest Fair 26th September

We are looking for people to help us with the Fair - perhaps businesses would like to have a 'stand' to show off their works, charities and parish groups might like to have a stand also to attract new members. We would hope to have bric a brac stands and a book stall, as well as Bouncy Castles (for the over 80's!) and Face Painting, Arts and Crafts, we are looking for someone who can let us have the use of a Flat bed trailer, also have any of you any contacts for a band who would provide music for the afternoon. We are hoping to have Irish dancing in the Community Centre, as well as teas, coffees, sweets, buns and ice cream stalls. Please contact the Office if you can help in any way.

Parish Office.

We would ask parishioners to stick to the official opening times between 10 and 12 Mon to Fri.

Annual Remembrance Service: The National Maternity Hospital are having their Annual Remembrance Service on Sunday 5th September 2010 at 3pm in St. Andrew's Church, Westland Row,

I don't think I look 42 Bridie, do I?

No, luv, but you used to.

That one was born stupid and has several relapses since.

That's a nice suit you're wearing- who went for the fitting?
